ON THE COVER: Photograph by Ron Ruscio. The living room in the "Modern Family" townhome of this year's JSG Showhouse is a blend of function and elegance. Designers Mikhail Dantes and Peter Schoelzel of Henredon Showroom used a quiet palette to make the most of the natural light that floods the space, (above) Richard A. White, Jennifer Fahrer and Jim Hering of HW Home designed a sophisticated retreat in the master bedroom of the "Global" townhome.

Study Designed as an extension of the master bedroom, this study is a combination of chic textures and earthy elements. The streamlined furniture is scaled to fit the space, which is expanded by a mirror that reflects the downtown Denver skyline. Pillows and lamps pick up the red-orange glow of the accent wall, while an assortment of accessories—a graphic zebra-patterned mirror frame, coconuts, a rain drum, framed foreign stamps, and Venetian glass—add to the ambience. A hand-cut shag Ultrasuede rug grounds the room with texture and comfort.

Laundry Room Designer Cathrin Crampton added vivid color to the laundry room. She selected a theme based on a documentary fabric from the Museum of New Mexico, pulling its bright colors onto the walls and into exuberant accessories that celebrate Mexican tradition. Master Bedroom & Bath Designers Jim Hering, Jennifer Fahrner and Richard White of HW Home created this master bedroom as a serene, sophisticated retreat. The canopy bed functions as a space-within-a-space, and a warm brown, cream and ivory palette creates a restful atmosphere, perfect for meditation. Fabrics are meant to be tactile and luxurious, while stimulating visual interest. A number of references to nature include printed fabrics, bold palm leaf artwork and seagrass flooring. Elements from distant cultures, such as the antique Buddha head and Chinese chest, are woven into the design. Mosaic tiles add sparkle and shine to the luxurious master bath, their soothing colors contrasting with dark wood cabinetry. A walk-in shower is handily placed between the sink and bathtub. JIM HERING, JENNIFER FAHRER, RICHARD A. WHITE, HW Home, (303) 394-9222, hwhome.com
