REISH | R

Pronunciation: Raish

Numerical value: 200

Primary meaning: Head

Secondary meanings: Beginning, leader, top, poverty

Essence: Peace

Spatial continuum: Saturn

Time continuum: Friday

Soul continuum: Left nostril

Sephirot: Path between Harmony (Tiferet) and Foundation (Yesod)

Verse from Torah: God saw that it (the beasts and domestic animals) was good.

Form: A letter Vav with the top extended to the left. The Reish is the basic shape used in forming most written Hebrew letters, i.e. a curve from upper left to lower right.

Sefer Yetzira (Book of Creation)

Reish represents authority. A true leader can make peace, which is the middle path, the compromise between extremes. Reish is similar to the letter Dalet, both of which signify poverty, but Dalet is the poverty of humility as indicated by the point on its upper right side. The rectification of Reish like the Koof is through humility. When Reish is rectified, it becomes the vessel of peace, which is the vessel with which to receive all good.

One who's name begins with the letter Raish has an active inclination and is attracted to business. They think twice before acting but sometimes feel hurried. Although cautious, this never deters them from their love to try new things.

The 22 Hebrew letters that form the Alef-Bet are the instruments of creation, as it is taught in the Kabbalistic text, the Zohar, "God looked into His Torah and began to create the world," using the letters of His Torah as the blueprint of creation. The Alef-Bet is also known as Lashon HaKodesh (The Holy Tongue or Language). The Hebrew language is unlike any other in that every aspect of the letter holds a particular importance. The letters are also called paths of Wisdom because through these letters, every person can develop his or her own way of understanding. This can be better understood through the teaching of the 32 Paths of Wisdom. One develops their own path through an understanding based on meditation of the letters. Within Jewish and Kabbalistic Meditation History, there is continuously proposed the tremendous significance in contemplation of the Hebrew letters. There are many ways of meditating on the letters. Generally, one begins by meditating on a simple detail, such as the shape or pronunciation of a letter. The letter chosen is one that relates essentially to the person, such as the first letter of his or her name (since the first letter is the primary power of each name) or a letter that relates to a key attribute of the person.
